

Training Up

May 16-17, 2015

A leadership summit for grassroots groups working to foster diversity in technology

Who We Are

The tech sector has a diversity problem. All over the world, grassroots groups have sprung up to try to fix it. Whether they focus on women, racial minorities, LGBT individuals, people with disabilities, or the elderly, their common goal is to make the people in tech look more like the people who use tech.

The Summit

This two-day meeting will give these groups a chance to share ideas, make connections, and compare notes on everything from funding and recruitment to teaching practices. Short talks, tutorials, and demonstration lessons in front of expert instructors will give everyone a chance to play an equal part.

We need your help to make this happen.
Your sponsorship will be used to cover travel costs for participants, and to pay for the meeting venue.

Sponsorship Levels

$10,000+

- Recognition in all announcements and materials
- Acknowledgment in social media
- Opportunity for a representative to speak during the Summit

$5,000+

- Recognition in all announcements and materials
- Acknowledgment in social media
- Opportunity for a representative to attend the Summit

$2,500+

- Recognition in all announcements and materials
- Acknowledgment in social media

$500+

- Acknowledgment in social media

Do you have another idea for help with travel, media, lodging, or anything else?
Please email sponsorship@training-up.org.